

Contacts for Possible PD

This list consists of individuals that have led successful workshops at past conferences and/or community group PD.

*Math, Science, Literacy- Dominic Tremblay has had excellent reviews in all three regions. He is flexible, fun and can work with your needs. Some of the workshops are very interactive and use Lego. Check out his website dominictremblay.com and his email is info@dominictremblay.com and his website is <http://dominictremblay.com/workshops>

*SMART BOARD technology- Kyle Tuck, Brockville University, kylejtuck@gmail.com

*RED CROSS First Aid, Asist, Mental Health, Phycological First Aid- Sarah Burke, sarah.burke@redcross.ca

*Trauma informed practice/ safe talk/ Our Children Our Responsibility (preventing Child Sexual Abuse in Nunavut) and similar sessions- Embrace Life Council, 867-975-3233, 1-866-804-2782, embracelife@inuusiq.com and <http://inuusiq.com>.

*CTRI – Crisis and Trauma Institute <https://ca.ctrinstitute.com>. Check out the site for possibilities. They can organize a presenter, they have webinars and online sessions and many resources some are free!

*Inhabit Media- Lots of made in Nunavut resources and curriculum related sessions- <http://inhabitmedia.com>; General Inquiries info@inhabitmedia.com. They provided workshops at the Qikiqtani conference and may be able to do something for a group of teachers.

Also, members have organized literacy, science and differentiated instruction sessions around the resources available. Resources were purchased and the workshops were organized by a teacher or teachers. One group took an online workshop through the address below and then collaborated on how their learning could apply to their practice using these resources. They made take away activities to use in their classrooms.

*ASCD : Here is a website that offers online workshops and has DVD's for workshops in a variety of areas; <http://www.ascd.org>. Take some time to explore the possibilities on the site.

*St. John Ambulance First Aid contact is Brent Fowler brent.fowler@sja.ca. Their office is in Winnipeg and this is the Nunavut affiliation office as well.

* Box Cars and One-Eyed Jacks also has tools for hands on math and literacy. You can use them to create your own workshop or bring up a presenter. The website is <http://www.boxcarsandoneeyedjacks.com>.

* Connect2Learning provides resources which can either be purchased and mailed, free online resources, on line workshops and outlines for teachers to create a workshop for their colleagues. <http://connect2learning.com> Sandra Herbst and Anne Davis work with this group.

*Learning Inuktitut online <http://www.tusaalanga.ca/splash> and resources and courses <http://www.pirurvik.ca>

*Classroom Management and effective teaching Harry Wong has lots of online modules plus videos, books, etc. Several schools use them. <http://www.effectiveteaching.com>

*The Perimeter Institute offers sessions, webcasts in science and physics. The contact is Tonia Williams at twilliams@perimeterinstitute.ca and the website is <http://www.perimeterinstitute.ca>.

*BOKS, Reebok Canada Fitness Foundation has free resources and workshops in the area physical activity. WWW.BOKSKIDS.CA The contact person is Kyla Crocker, Kyla.Crocker@bokskids.org.

*Pinnguaq- STEAM activities and workshops. Nathan Gardiner is the contact at 705-879-2176, nathan@pinnguaq.com, www.pinnguaq.com

*Connected North- For schools who have this set up in the school there is a multitude of options available for Professional Learning in your schools. Contact Brenda Sherry, bsherry@takingitglobal.org. 519-835-9582 and www.connectednorth.org.

*Self Regulation, Dr. Stuart Shanker- There are resources, professional learning options and information on the site <https://self-reg.ca>.

*Restitution and Restorative Practice - Diane Gossen <http://realrestitution.com>